1. What are your thoughts on all coding going through chat gpt and work on the concepts or bash your head against the wall and code?

I would like to try and code but I am not very good at it. AI really helps me understand what the lines of code are doing with comments. Writing it is my problem. looking at it, most of the time I can see the logic behind the output. I do feel like the concepts are more important though instead of me getting mad about my code throwinig errors and not working.
