1. What are your thoughts on coding with Chat GPT or do you want to learn the hard way or could it be a skill.

In my opinion it is important to know how to live with your time and be able to adapt to the current technology. Basic skills are a must it enables you to know how your code would work in the setting of programming and be able to correct potential chat GPT mistakes as the technology is not perfect yet. In our future careers if programming is involved Chat GPT will still be available. Therefore I believe that it is a noble idea to believe that you should be able to realise everything yourself but others will be more efficient that you at doing a same job for a same output because of fix ideas. Furthermore i consider a skill being able to properly use chat gpt. My conclusion is that we should be able to live with our time and use to the fullest the resources we have while having mastery of our basic skills.
